

PAYING THE PEDESTRIANS.

Mr. McSwyny Disputed—Scene at the Chemical Bank—Sad Bookmakers—A Challenge.
Messrs. Hart, Dohler, Pogram, Howard, Allen, Krohn, Williams, and Hanawaker and their friends met in the office of the Spirit of the Times yesterday afternoon to get checks for their share of the proceeds in the walk for the O'Leary belt. About forty men were present, and there was quite a commotion at one time, caused by a claim put in by Messrs. McSwyny and Calvin, who were not among the walkers in the movement. They were to count the money and see that the pedestrians got all that was due to them. In order to have a strict watch on the ticket business, Mr. McSwyny engaged several of his friends to act as auditors.

In the first place, Mr. Curtis said, the disbursement was unauthorized; the men had only written to the bank to say that they wanted to withdraw their money, and others had worked two hours a day for $12 a week, and were good men at that.

Mr. McSwyny retorted by pointing in men being paid $12 a week.

The checks were then given to the walkers, the exact amounts being as follows: Hart, $1,000; Dohler, $1,000; Pogram, $1,000; Allen, $9,000 and $1,000 for bearing flower-beds; Pogram, $1,000; Howard, $1,741.21; Hart, $200; Allen, $1,000; Krohn, $217.75; Williams, $1,000.

When Hart went around from Chamber street into Broadway he was recognized, and his friends roared that "Chemical Bank," on which the checks were drawn, had increased to hundreds. When Hart and the others entered the bank, the manager, a man of middle age, blocks, lawyers, and men of all stations. It was the most orderly crowd ever seen in the Chamber street office.
